In the fall of 1952, [REDACTED] observed that Ratzow airfield north Meyenburg was completed. The field which was in a woods measured about 3,500 x 1,000 meters and was being rolled. In late March 1953, [REDACTED] learned from a former resident from Ratzow who escaped to the West that the field was covered by grass and that no concreting work had been done there.

[REDACTED] Comment. The last information on Ratzow airfield dates from September 1952. At that time the field was being levelled. It is possible that work at the installation has been completed in the meantime and that the installation is used as an alternate airfield.
